WebEx Online Conferencing

An easy way to be WAY

more productive:

When we here at SiteVision decided to try WebEx, we thought it would be interesting. We discovered it to be invaluable. Now we've partnered with Cisco to offer it to those of you who need a better way to hold meetings in real time. You can exchange and grow ideas, make decisions, and collaborate with anyone—anywhere in the world— just like you would in person.

Best of all, it couldn't be easier. Users click- in and you're ready to get the meeting started. WebEx combines real-time desktop sharing with phone conferencing so everyone sees the same thing while you talk. It's far more productive than emailing files and struggling to get everyone on the same page over the phone. Plus it can often put a big dent in the expense needed for people to travel and meet on site. Sales presentations, business planning, training and events become easier, more productive in less time. The entire meeting can be recorded.

Can you tell we're fans? If you think you might have an interest, just give us a call to learn more.

Virtual Servers, and Why Would You Want One?

Shared hosting, the phrase most of us are familiar with, is an excellent solution for small websites. But as your website or internal requirements grow, virtual servers can offer dramatically increased security, flexibility and cost savings. It's like having your own in-house web server, minus the hassles of hardware costs, IT, maintenance and upgrade costs. Your virtual server is completely isolated to protect valuable internal documents, ecommerce solutions, other applications and web data. You can install anything you like with security permissions you choose.

As we increasingly become a web-oriented world, we've made an equal commitment to the technology that supports it. Before you think about adding to your in-house hardware costs, or if you're wondering whether there's a better solution than you now have, think about the benefits of a virtual server. You can call us, anytime, to answer any questions you might have.

Maintenance Announcement:

On Wednesday, December 16th, SiteVision, Inc. will be performing scheduled maintenance. This maintenance will include installing important security updates for all servers as well as configuration changes for our shared hosting servers to increase performance. Please notify SiteVision if you experience any decreased performance regarding your website once the maintenance has been completed.

HOLIDAY CLOSING SCHEDULE:

Christmas: Thursday Dec 24th –

Friday, Dec 25th

New Years: Friday, Jan 1st

Troubleshoot Problems in Windows 7:

If some part of Windows 7 is behaving strangely or responding slowly etc..., and you don't know why, then here is a quick way to ask the computer: hey can you tell me what is going on?

Follow this procedure to access some helpful wizards: click Control Panel > Under the System and Security heading > Click Find and fix problems (or 'Troubleshooting') to access the new Troubleshooting packs. These are simple wizards that will resolve common problems with your hardware, network and simply the appearance of things. It will also help you in checking your settings and cleaning up your system, as well as many other tasks.

Need Help?

Is your web enterprise technology lacking or somewhat out of date? We offer free initial consultations to help you articulate needs, establish goals and get off to a good start.

Customer Spotlight Virginia EMS Air Transport Teams

Ems Air Transport Teams are flying more safely with a new Med-EVAC Weather Safe System spearheaded by Paul Davenport, Senior Director for Carilion Clinic patient transport, and sponsored by the Virginia Healthcare and Hospital Association (VHHA). The custom application was developed by SiteVision.

Schrader Real Estate Auctions

The power of ColdFusion, along with FuseBox, allows Schrader to disseminate easily and quickly the information they need to publish listings for their successful auctions, as well as allowing them to provide an online bidding process for their clients.
